Resolutions for Gardeners

A new year typically brings about resolutions, whether for losing weight, being more organized, or just an overall wish to "be better". Resolutions are good goals to have.

Most gardeners wish for better gardens! Following are five resolutions that we think gardeners, no matter their level of expertise, can embrace for 2013.

1. I will not blame myself for gardening failures.

Oftentimes Mother Nature is not our friend when it comes to gardening, or, life just gets in the way. Don't despair! Simply try again and learn from experience. Your garden, and your gardening friends, are both extremely forgiving.

2. I will not be afraid to ask questions.

How else can you learn? Take advantage of the experience of your neighbor, your friend, or other Garden Club members!

3. I will try something new.

Gardeners are always looking for the newest of the new, for bragging rights if nothing else! Try something more than just a new plant or seed, like maybe a new growing style or a completely new crop of vegetables. Cruise around the internet for the hundreds of great garden sites full of ideas and stop in often to share your ideas with us and see what we have in store for you this year!

4. I will share my passion.

Chances are you got your start as a gardener by learning from someone else, maybe a parent, grandparent or other family member. Can you be that mentor? You could be the reason your son or daughter serves homegrown vegetables, or that your neighbor plants window boxes for the first time!

5. I will embrace nature and garden for the birds, the bees, and the butterflies (bats, too!).

One of the most enjoyable benefits of having a garden is being able to enjoy the beautiful creatures who visit it. So plan your flowers and vegetables with that in mind, then sit back and enjoy the show!
